

Partners in Access to College Education

Eating as an Accommodation

This accommodation is for a student with a disability that presents a specific barrier that impacts the ability to sit through the entirety of a test or class without eating.

Eating should be only a small snack.

Snack should not be anything that takes preparation.

This snack should not take long to consume.

This snack should not make noise when opening or consuming that may be disturbing to other students.

This snack should not give off a pungent smell or strong odor that may be disturbing to other students.

In general, this accommodation should not disturb any other students in class when utilizing.

Instructors cannot require a student to leave the class in order to consume their snack.